

Practice Parliamentary Debate Topics

This house would believe in the woman's right to choose.

This house would distribute condoms in schools.

This house believes that newspapers are a things of the past.

This house would go nuclear.

This house would make sex education mandatory in schools.

This house would ban the use of animals as sports and entertainment.

This house believes social deprivation causes crime.

This house would ban lyrics that glorifies violence against women.

This house believes bribery is sometimes acceptable.

This house believes that sometimes banning freedom of speech is acceptable.

This house would ban alcohol.

This house would make all parents attend parenting classes.

This house would ban the development of genetically modified organisms.

This house would legalize polygamy.

This house supports home schooling.

This house would arm the police.

This house believes animals have rights.

This house would ban child performers.

This house believes all nations have a right to nuclear weapons.

This house believes the Olympics is a good investment.

This house would ban teachers from interacting with students via social networking.

This house would use torture to gain information from suspected terrorists.

This house believes people should not keep pets.

This house believes the UK should have written a constitution.

This house would make handwriting better.

This house would introduce child curfews.

This house believes that developed countries have a higher obligation to counteract climate change than developed countries.

This house prefers dogs to cats.

This house believes Disney does more harm than good.

This house wants clean water.

This house prefers art to sports.

The house prefers heads to be in the clouds.

This house prefers candyland to chutes and ladders.

This house distinguishes between colors.

This house would sell its car.

This house prefers solar energy.

This house would sell cookies.

This house supports the distribution of food stamps.

This house would make exercise mandatory to all able bodied citizens.

This house would learn to meditate.

This house would follow the law.

This house believes in ghosts.

This house writes letters by hand.

This house prefers a greyscale.

This house wants to know the truth.

This house feels that preferences decrease happiness.

This house would watch more TV.

This house prefers museums to books.

This house would travel more.

This house would refuse to apologize for an accident.

This house would garden.

This house would limit debate.

This house prefers trans pacific partnerships to local ones.

This house would drink more water.

This house would increase access to public transportation.

This house prefers laziness to busy work.